Town Talk

... Being a Column of Chatter About People You Know ...

DOROTHY M. OGDEN

Hi y'all, just a note on what's cooking roundabout Narberth these days.

Last week the Business Council dinner at Chios' threw quite a swank dinner, with steak and potatoes of mushrooms, double dips of ice cream included.

"Was kinda sentimental that Howard Cotter is the new prey 'cause his poppa was once the same a while back. Walter Case got a swell opinion pen for his four hectic years as chief, and Ralph Dunne, looking dapper as usual, gave out some helpful hints about the borough parking problems.

Kathleen McCormick took a chic, and if I wasn't delighted to be sitting between Charlie Girvin (his jolly laugh made the evening perfect) and my old friends, the Hobsons.

Lessee who else turned up—Mrs. Harry Hollar got herself a war bond as thanks for her services as secy of the Council. Rev. Kirkland asked the blessing. Frank Coffman (L. in the AAF) was the very good principal speaker—all in all, that dinner was the most fun of any event in recent years.

Tag Lines ... Berated Carl Metzger, Jr. for letting his bank bounce a little old check of mine—fine thing! Not that the Bank's subtraction isn't better mine ever was. He assured he had nuthin' to do with it, so the apology is accepted. Mr. M. Ran into Dick Custer at the station 't other afternoon. He surely does look swell despite all that time overseas. Reports sister Carolyn, recently honorably discharged from the WAVES, likes her job in art advertising at Curtis muchly. She's such a clever gal. Paul Shea is vacationing in Miami 'bout do I ever envy him and Al Shimer is taking over in his absence. I met up with Austin Hartzel the other noon and whadda peachy guy he is! Emily told me they've bought a house in the Boro and they love it, natcherly. I ran into Addison Durbin while working down here one day and he was telling me how he's learned to walk and talk all over again. What spunk that takes after the siege he had! Do-u-no? He went on pension during the war and kept some of his men working in his office instead! Pretty swell, huh? Congratulations to Walt Fox for being elected pres. of the Council.

Find War Bonds; Child Gets Reward

Carol Ann March, 6, Finds Bonds Lost By Soldier

Little Carol Ann March, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. March, 518 Brookhurst Rd., Penn. Valley, is 110 wealthier today. Carol, Daniel, Elaine, 6007 Roosevelt Blvd., Philadelphia is a much happier young man.

Carol Ann found two $1,000 war bonds lying on Montgomery Ave. on Saturday night which had been dropped by a soldier while looking at real estate in Penn. Wynne.

Not realizing what she had found, Carol Ann took the envelope home and asked her father if they were any good. After recovering from his surprise he called the Lower Merion police and turned the bonds over to them.

The police found that the bonds were not listed in the Philadelphia phone book so enlisted the aid of the city police in locating the bond owner.

When notified that the bonds had been found, a 21 year old veteran of Patton's 3rd Army, he said that there would be a reward for the little girl.

On Sunday Elaine claimed his lost bonds and in turn presented Carol Ann with her $10 reward.

When asked what she planned to do with the money she said she was going to buy a new Easter outfit with it or maybe save it and buy a bond.

State Allots Gas Tax For Road Work

$49,000 in L. Merion; $27,400 For Haverford; $3,150 Narberth

Lower Merion and Haverford Townships and Narberth Borough will benefit by the re-allocation of part of the Pennsylvania gas tax money, it was revealed last Thursday afternoon at a meeting in Lower Merion Township Building, Ardmore.

Over 100 secretaries, councilmen and commissioners of nearby first class townships, boroughs and cities in Delaware, Montgomery, Chester, Bucks and Philadelphia Counties assembled at the request of William Bassett, district engineer for the State.

He explained Act No. 400, approved at the last State Legislature, under which gas tax moneys will be turned back to two groups of municipalities for the maintenance, repair and construction of roads.

In Lower Merion Township 151,765 miles of township roads have been approved by the State Highway Department engineers and Evan L. James, township secretary, said that Lower Merion can expect approximately $49,000.

In Haverford Township, $4,935 miles have been approved and the township can expect approximately $27,400.

Narberth Borough has had 9,763 miles accepted and can expect approximately $3,150.

In Bassett's five-county district, $17,000,000 of tax money will be divided. This money will be paid quarterly for two years.

After computation of road mileage of the municipalities Bassett estimated that each would receive from $300 to $330 a mile.

All details will be handled at the office of the district engineer of the State Department of Highways, 7 E. Lancaster Ave., Ardmore.

Amend Code On Orphanage Rumor

A rumor that a Philadelphia orphanage was looking for a sub-urban location in Narberth caused the Narberth Borough Council to pass an amendment to their zoning ordinance Monday night.

The council first called for a public hearing to be held at 8 P. M. on Monday night, and when no one appeared to either contest or support the change, the Council passed the new ordinance.

Councilmen were fearful that if an orphanage was established here the children would attend the public school and impose a financial burden on the school board.

The amendment to the zoning code would prevent such an organization from establishing an orphanage unless it obtained special permission from the Borough's Board of (zoning) Adjustment.

The increase will help to cover the cost of a new $20,500 Seagraves ladder truck being bought by the Narberth Fire Company. With $7,000 in the fire company treasury, and $1,000 from the sale of the old truck, the remainder of the money for the purchase of the truck will come from the borough. The estimated budget appropriation for the maintenance of the company is $15,000.

Lower Merion Twp. Raises Tax Rate

Employees Will Be Given Five Percent Wage Boost

Lower Merion Township commissioners passed a million and one-quarter dollars budget Wednesday night and raised the township tax rate two mills to cover it.

Announcement of the 1946 budget and that Lower Merion was raising its politically-vaunted, low tax level came at the end of three consecutive night meetings of the commissioners in the Township Building at Ardmore.

During those meetings, all of which lasted to midnight, the commissioners dined with the Mayor, trying to balance their budget by cutting services or resorting to a bond issue. In the end the commissioners, five of whom are new members, decided that Lower Merion's citizens would rather stay on the pay-as-you-go basis and pay an additional tax.

No Parking Lots

The new budget calls for the expenditure of $1,257,034 this year as compared to actual expenditures of $1,253,448 in 1945. Tax boost from eight to ten mills will give

Clothing Drive Slow In Narberth

Clothes Should Be Left At Fire House Or At Churches

The United Nations victory clothing collection is progressing slowly in Narberth, according to a report made this week by John Wetzel, chairman of collection and packing.

Mrs. Wetzel pointed out that while the drive is going on, it has been made that the residents of the borough must not realize the desperate need of the peoples of Europe for clothes.

If the residents realized this great need I believe the response to the drive would be greater," she said.

She pointed out that clothing should not be taken to the Narberth public school but instead should be taken to the fire house or to any church.

Sorting and packing all the clothes will be done at the fire house. Many persons have already volunteered to assist with the work but toward the end of the drive when it is hoped the contributions will be greater, more workers will be needed.

Packing cartons are also needed for the work and any one who will donate these to the drive should contact Mrs. Wetzel or Joseph Adelizzi, who is serving as borough chairman of the drive.

Board Passes Up Petitions In Filling Commission Vacancy

Lower Merion Township commissioners after interviewing five candidates for the vacant Pencoyd commissioner post Wednesday night appointed Joseph V. Wright, 47, 1126 Woodbine Ave., Penn. Valley.

Their appointment made in the cross fire of Republican Party factions immediately touched off several political boomerangs in the Township.

The other candidates interviewed were Donald Sykes, a relative of Frank H. Sykes, former president of the Board of Commissioners; C. Brooke Jones, Jr., former Army Air Forces captain and son of the former commissioner who died; Rocco Burdo, ex-service man who spent more than three years in the Southwest Pacific; Joseph Conway, former owner of the Egyptian Theatre and past director of Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club.

Both Burdo and Jones presented petitions to the commissioners which were signed by residents of Pencoyd, including West Manayunk and Cynwyd Estates. There were 450 signatures on Burdo's petition and Jones had about 300 backers. Conway also had a petition in circulation.

Where law does not require the circulation of a petition commissioners have encouraged it in the past as a straw in the wind of who the people would like to represent them.

The appointee, Wright, has lived in the Township about 12 years. For the last three years he has been a resident of that section of Penn. Valley which is in Pencoyd. For nine years he lived in Overbrook Hills, the political district of Congressman Samuel E. McConnell, Jr. Wright is past-president of the Penn. Wynne-Overbrook Hills Fire Company.

In Penn. Valley Wright is chairman of the zoning committee of the Penn. Valley Association.

Wright graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Engineering School in 1922 and the University of Buffalo Law School in 1929.

He is supervising attorney of the General Accident, Fire and Life Assurance Co. of 414 Walnut St., Philadelphia.

GUS SHANKWELLER

By T. M. BAXTER

Gus has been one of our leading golf professionals for a good many years. The field is a little fast for him these days but the name "Shankweller" still pops up in tournaments now and then. Gus usually finished in the money and, in addition, was known as one of our best-dressed golfers.

As you know, the modern pro golfer is the most smartly turned out of all athletes. As a matter of fact, they set the trend for sport clothes. Only the other day in one of the trade papers devoted to men's wear, we see that "DEEP MOSS GREEN'S APPEAR AT LOS ANGELES GOLF TOURNAMENT," and that Craig Wood featured a flame red sweater, and Jimmy Anderson, a gray and white vertical stripe Duke of Windsor shirt, and several caps were seen. Gus Shankweller using a fine tan-check one.

However, it wasn't always this way with Gus and, thereby, hangs a tale, the age-old legend of the let-down a dream girl experiences when she sees her dashing young Lieut. (j.g.) in civvies for the first time. Remember the stories that used to flood the magazines about the beautiful, Eastern heiress and the cowboy and the terrific shock when he shows up in her drawing room with his store-bought clothes? Now this little fable, we are about to unfold, is unique in that it has a golfing twist.

We will have to go back as far as the Summer of 1914, two World Wars ago, to a resort in the Poconos, complete with hotel, lake, horseback riding, and golf.

Gus was born and raised on a farm close to the place and had caddied around the golf course from the time he was big enough to lift a bag. So the Summer of 1914 finds Gus a tall, handsome looking lad, serving as a sort of assistant to the pro, giving an occasional lesson and playing with the guests.

It was during this never-to-be-forgotten Summer that Gus met Constance, who was spending the season at the Inn with her family. They lived in Brooklyn and were (to coin a phrase) "rather well to do."

Constance was a slim, honey-colored blonde with dimples like Lillian Walker, the Vitaphone star. It was natural, then, with very little competition on either side, that these two personable youngsters would become interested in each other.

Followed quiet twosomes on the golf course, which they had, practically, to themselves on weekdays; cool nights for strolls in the moonlight; dancing underneath the stars on a little platform built over the terrace.

Constance looking completely adorable in frocks with lots of chiffon, very high-laced shoes, and little Dutch boudoir cap; Gus being sort of casual with a pair of golf slacks and shirt opened at the throat.

They did the Hesitation and the Tango, danced the Maxixe and the Castle Walk to the music of "High Jinks" and "Sari." Not for them, the vulgar Turkey Trot, Grizzly Bear, or Bunny Hug; nor was this to be just another hot weather romance.

July, a beautiful month in the Poconos, speed by on wings. August, even with about twenty days of rain, passed unheeded. Came the Harvest Moon and, as it shimmered on the waters of the lake, Constance and Gus swore that Indian Summer would find "no heart broken for a word someone left unsaid"; no indeed.

Gus must spend Thanksgiving in Brooklyn at Constance's home. As soon as she arrived at "Smith" she would write to Gus and tell him just when he would be expected.

Gus hurried to meet the mail train every night, but you can stop worrying right away because soon a letter arrived from Constance, telling Gus to take such-and-such a train to Hoboken on a certain day in November, she would meet him there.

There was great excitement on the Shankweller farm. Gus had done the family proud, being invited to Brooklyn, and he would have to make a very good impression on the city folks.

So Gus was taken to Stroudsburg and there at the "Bon Ton Emporium," he was fitted out in the most approved Stroudsburg style.

A good, sturdy suit was selected but as Gus was still a growing boy, it proved a bit tight across the chest and short in the arms and leg. Gus would want a stiff collar even if the "Bon Ton" only boasted celluloid ones. A new tie was in order, the ready-made kind, needing only to be hooked on. Gus fell in love with a pair of light tan, bull-dog-toed shoes with shiny pearl buttons. A round derby hat, also a bit too small, completed the ensemble.

Came the great day, and Gus found himself on the train bound for Hoboken. His mother had put up the standard lunch for traveling purposes: a couple of bananas, a few apples, seven or eight sandwiches, a bottle of milk, and a medium-size chocolate layer cake, which Gus munched, in happy contemplation, as old engine 999 chugged merrily toward Hoboken.

Constance, in the meanwhile, had been laying great plans: The girls at "Smith" had heard about nothing but Gus. She would display Gus at a tea given at Delmonico's; they would try their new Tango routine at Castles in the Air and, maybe, an evening at Riesenweber's in Brighton Beach. Her mind was busy with such thoughts as she watched the train pull in and discharge its passengers.

The last traveler alighted without her seeing any signs of Gus. Finally, she saw a gawky looking boy with an awful suit and a small, round derby hat perched on top of his head. Faintly, she heard herself say, "Hello Gus."

He answered, "Hello Constance."

Then Constance said, "Now, Gus, you wait right here. I have to phone the folks that you've arrived. I'll be right back."

Gus waited and waited and waited, but you might as well have it quick, dear reader, Constance never returned.

State Department's Lack of Charge Public Not Informed
News Conferences Protested About Our Foreign Policies

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Complaints are bobbing up in Washington that some top men in the Truman administration are not putting into practice the avowed policy of keeping the public informed. Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, in resigning as ambassador to China, said the public was not being given enough information about foreign policies. The same kind of criticism has been made about other government activities.

News writers who cover the state department have voiced dissatisfaction with the two news conferences a week held by Secretary of State James Byrnes. This is at variance, they recall, with the traditional state department policy of a news conference a day.

They say that, because of the Byrnes schedule, important questions on foreign affairs often go unanswered for days.

News writers who cover the treasury have expressed displeasure with Secretary Fred M. Vinson's apparent distaste for news conferences. A Vinson news conference is a rarity.

UNWITTINGLY MAJ. GEN. FRANK MCCOY, American delegate to the Far Eastern Advisory Commission, tipped off the fact that the adjournment of the body 10 minutes after its first meeting was called had been planned in advance.

W. AVERELL HARRIMAN, American ambassador to Moscow, is raising chickens in the embassy backyard. There is a reason for it. Eggs are a rarity in the Russian capital, and Harriman just couldn't get used to breakfast without eggs.

Incidentally, his bold solution of the problem is reported to have stimulated Russian interest in eggs as an article of diet.

THE ADMINISTRATION HAS TAKEN UP new tactics in attempts to obtain favorable action on the Murray-Wagner-Dingell bill, dubbed by its opponents "socialized medicine." When two committees refused to report the bill to the floor for consideration, administration forces revised the measure and had it referred to new committees.

The bill previously contained a provision for financing the program which, President Truman told Congress, would provide "health security for all." Result: It was committed to the hostile Senate finance committee and House ways and means committee.

Sponsors of the bill later eliminated any provision for financing the program and had it committed to the Senate labor committee, headed by Senator Murray (D) of Montana, one of its supporters, and the House interstate and foreign commerce committee.

And now the administration anticipates a more favorable reception for the legislation.

GENERAL OF THE ARMY DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, newly-appointed chief of staff, is expected to use a new broom once he settles down in his offices in the Eisenhower Changes Expected Pentagon.

Army reports are that Eisenhower, who is as famed as an administrator as he is for fighting qualities, will reorganize the general staff and that many close associates of Gen. George C. Marshall, whom "Ike" replaces, will be among those to leave.

Eisenhower is expected to surround himself with field commanders and other top generals who were close to him in Europe and who shared with him the rugged job of crushing Hitler's fighting machine.

Among other things, the able and amiable Eisenhower is known as a man who never forgets his friends.

KNOW YOUR STATE

The 17th of January, 1946, is the 240th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, Pennsylvania's greatest citizen. In all human history there are few men worthy to be set beside Franklin for the versatility and brilliance of their achievements. A poor boy, with no start in life but that provided by his own energy and ability, he became one of America's most successful businessmen, its greatest man of science, its leading statesman, and its most practical citizen. A mere catalogue of Franklin's achievements presents an astonishing picture of the importance of one man's life to the future of his nation and of the world.

In science, working with crude instruments and far from any sources of instruction, he discovered the nature of atmospheric electricity and proved the existence of positive and negative electricity. In so doing he founded a whole branch of science of incalculable importance to the origin of prevailing storms, as to the course of the Gulf stream and the nature of water spouts. He invented the lightning rod, the bifocal spectacle, and the first practical device for the central heating of homes.

As a citizen he is responsible for the first organized fire protection and for the paving and clearing of streets; for the invention of a practical street lamp; for the founding of the first circulating library; the first hospital and the first school in which the English language was the basis of higher education; a school which afterwards became the University of Pennsylvania. He established the first Provincial Militia, organized the North West Territory, and instigated the first issuance of paper money.

As a statesman he early proposed a plan for the union of the English colonies in America. He brought about the repeal of the British Stamp Act. He persuaded France to come to the assistance of the united colonies in their struggle for independence. He negotiated the Treaty of Peace with Great Britain. He was the Chairman of the First Continental Convention for the United States which adopted the Articles of Confederation. He was the first Post Master General of the United States and was three times re-elected as the President of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

With only two or three years of common school education, he became one of America's foremost men of letters, a member of the Royal Society of Great Britain which bestowed on him the Copley medal for his scientific discoveries.

Dr. A. Cheyney Guest Speaker At Meeting

Bala-Cynwyd Group Lists First Antique Show in April

"An analysis of Problems of Our Relations With Russia," was the topic of a talk given by Dr. Alice S. Cheyney, at the meeting of the Women's Club of Bala-Cynwyd, on Monday in the club house.

Dr. Cheyney is a member of the International Labor Office of Geneva.

Pointing out that other countries make the same demands and statements as Russia, Dr. Cheyney stated that Russia wanted to be surrounded by friendly countries as a protective measure while we ask for bases in the Pacific area for the same reason.

In comparing the freedoms of the countries, Dr. Cheyney stated that while we have more freedom of speech in assemblies, the individual in Russia is more secure and the economic freedom is greater. She added that the United States stands for freedom of speech, but not the security of the freedom of the individual.

Tea was served at the conclusion of Dr. Cheyney's talk, with Mrs. Charles Neville and Mrs. Walter Sumner presiding.

The painting exhibition for January is by Helen Mann, a graduate of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Dormitory Favorite

A popular night shirt.

By VERA WINSTON

THE NIGHTSHIRT is becoming more and more popular with dormitory crowds that used to consider pajamas the correct slumber attire. If the nightshirts are of the type depicted here, this fact doesn't astonish us unduly. It is of red and white pin striped rayon crepe, made with a classic collar, short sleeves and one pocket. The monogram is embroidered in red.

Scout Cub Pack In Record Attendance

Awards Are Made On Certification Of Den Mothers

The January meeting of Cub Pack No. 79, of Bala-Cynwyd, was held last Friday night at St. Asaph's Church. A record attendance was achieved with 31 registered cubs being present. Fifty-eight parents and guests also were present as Cubmaster Schob conducted the meeting. Interesting exhibits depicting the theme of "Boys of the World" was submitted by the four Dens as part of their competition for the monthly flag award.

G. Thomas Millman was initiated as a member of the Den 1 of the Pack.

Awards were made to the following cubs upon certification by their den mothers that they had completed the required work.

Barry Hudson, Irvin Kunzman, Jr., John Parr, James Tuttle, Jr., and Hunter Wanger.

The flag, which is awarded monthly to the den earning the greatest number of merit points, was won by Den No. 2, by the narrow margin of less than one full point over Den No. 4.

Mrs. Ellen A. Dietrich, chairman of publicity for the rabbit trapping campaign of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, gave a talk with a demonstration of the use of the traps. Many questions were asked by the cubs particularly concerning what should be done if a skunk is caught in the trap instead of a rabbit.

Refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned after pledging allegiance to the Flag.

FOUNDED "BIRD CITY"

Bird-lover E. A. McElhinny, Avery Island, La. in 1892 placed eight young snowy egrets inside a large 50-foot-square cage containing trees and water, and fed them until the following Autumn, when the cage was removed. The birds disappeared, only to return the following Spring to nest. From two nests that season, the colony grew into a large wildlife refuge known today as "Bird City."

Town Talk

Will miss Lou Young, Sr., and Roland Fier over there, but know that Sterling Chain and Bill Thompson will do "themselves proud" for ye old Boro.

Hope Avon Rd's Mrs. Piersol is feeling a k after that toss-up in the auto to her afternoon. Joe Kelley - the town's best beau - 'cause of that nice deal he fixed for Sunday mail from servicemen - reports he hopes to meet Joe, Jr. in San Francisco when he returns from Manila.

Joe Whiteside promoted John Devlin for the biz-dinner, and a right good guy he turned out to be. Whadda a fund of stories! Hey there, W. Hawes, hope you've found yourself some sugar to make up for what ya hadda do without 't'other eve. Joe Adelizi, 'tis swellant of you to volunteer to do all that work in connection with the clothing drive. Narberstidents! Remember to take your donations to the Narberth Fire House or at any church for deposit and make 'em big on account people in Europe are colder'n 'round 't'ike to be under the same circumstances.

Sure'n 'tis a fine thing Bernie Cantagalli is home for good and wearing one of Uncle Sam's littul gold buttons. Johnny Sheehan is home on furlough, so's Harry Moore. Al Greiner and Al Greiner. The guys are really coming home.

Do-u-no? The Boro, in cahoots with the Township, is trying to do its best for its vets housing problems. Dr. J. Allyn Rogers is the head of the Boro's Veterans Bureau up in Bryn Mawr at the War Memorial building, and guess who's helping him? Our own Jim Barnett. More fun to be working back in the Boro for 48 hours and people like him around again after years overseas. We used to live right behind each other in the old days, me at 118 Chestnut and Jim at 143 Merion.

Remember the Howleys? Well, heard a lot of info about their latest doings. Bob is now a Lt. s. g. in the USNR, plans to stay in the service till Summer when he's coming back (probably as a Lt. s. g.).

Eleanor, who married Bob Nelms, has moved to Bridgeport, Conn., where Bob is doing something very interesting with radio and electronics, and Mrs. Rowley, now Mrs. Thomas E. Place, is living in Norristown. Bob's sister, Mrs. Dick Miller from Shirley Rd., gave me the report on the family whereabouts, and Mrs. Place later told me that her husband, now Mrs. Thomas E. Place, is living in Norristown. Bob's sister, Mrs. Dick Miller from Shirley Rd., gave me the report on the family whereabouts, and Mrs. Place later told me that her husband, now Mrs. Thomas E. Nice to have the Wingates over here, even though we'll miss the Edgertons. Understand Mrs. E. is in Florida living with Emily and her husband, but don't know where Donny and Byron are. Any info about them gratefully appreciated.

Enjoyed seeing Borites Ginny and Don Donnelly, Lt. (s. g.) Sam McCartney, Paul Reynolds, Linda Vogel and the Oren Persons, at the annual (pre-war) New Year's Eve party at the Boro. When more people get home, we'll do it again (New Year's Eve or not) and give everybody the "welcome home" hi-sien.

Sidelines to the Council ... How's coming up with the Wynnewood Civic Association to put across that barn Ed Mahoney is giving to them on the old Shortridge tract so that the Narberth Police Dept. can have a place for Community playhouse or sumthin' like that they could call it. Any suggestions forthcoming?

Do-u-no? What the percentage of Narberth boys exists on the Merion Girl Scouts? Some-one suggested 't'other day the reason L. M. has had such terrific teams is that outdoor court behind the library where our boys fill the baskets every afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Merion Girl Scouts Working For Badges

The sixth grade girls of the Merion Girl Scouts, No. 216, are now working for their Child Care Badges. Mrs. C. S. Strickler has offered the use of her home and necessary equipment for this project.

Mrs. R. G. Klemeyer, Mrs. R. T. Gowland and Mrs. W. J. Beaten are directing the work. The troop meets every Thursday afternoon at the Merion War Tribute House.

Boost Tax

The Township $189,000 additional revenue this year. But even with the additional revenue this year's budget provides for little more than maintaining present township services and catching up on some of the road and other work that had to be postponed during the war.

Highlights of the expenditures are the establishment of an employees' retirement system and a pay boost for all employees, final claims of which are still to be worked out.

One of the glaring omissions is the failure of commissioners to appropriate anything for the acquisition of parking plots to relieve traffic congestion in the Township's business centers of Bryn Mawr, Ardmore and Bala-Cynwyd. Neither does the budget contain any appropriations for acquiring or constructing community center buildings, which are being urged by several civic groups as suitable war memorials.

The budget contains no provision for any extensive postwar program. Commissioners expressed the belief that needed repair work should come first and that by the time this is caught up both the labor and materials market would be more favorable. They are also waiting to see if any monies will be made available from either the Federal or State governments.

Veterans entered the budget picture with a $5,000 appropriation for operating the Veterans Service Center in the Bryn Mawr War Memorial Building. All Civilian Defense appropriations have been discontinued. Township officials figure that the cost of reinstating all employees, who have been in the armed services will amount to approximately $90,000 or about one-half of what the Township obtains from the two mills tax increase.

In the face of added expenditures the Township is virtually debt free. When on February 1 it pays off $20,000 it will only be carrying a bonded debt of $50,000 and these bonds are not callable for several years. The Township is also carrying a bonded debt of $50,000 and these bonds are not callable for several years. The Township is also carrying a bonded debt of $50,000 and these bonds are not callable for several years.

Reasons For Increase

In announcing the two tax mill increase Richard J. Thornton, Wynnewood attorney and the board's new president, gave these reasons for the tax increase:

1. To restore the manpower of the police department to pre-war levels.

2. To provide for highway construction and maintenance deferred during wartime years.

3. To replace worn-out automotive and radio equipment.

4. To furnish modest wage and salary adjustments.

5. To provide for retirement benefits.

As yet, no details have been worked out for the retirement system. Thornton pointed out that township employees do not benefit through the Federal Social Security Act nor do they share in the Lower Merion Police Pension Fund. Only $25,000 was set aside in the 1946 budget as a starter for the program. When it is set up both the Township and employees will share the cost of the plan. It is understood that eventually the Police Pension Fund will be merged with the retirement fund with being given for those already having accrued benefits in the police fund.

Commissioners have yet to decide how much

On the Job Training

Veterans' administration officials say there is a decided trend among veterans who are taking advantage of the provisions of the educational features of the G. I. bill to get away from college and university study in favor of on-the-job training for various trades. This trend was also noticeable following World War I.

As of December 1 there were 103,526 veterans taking on-the-job training or enrolled in colleges and universities and officials point out that if the heavy enrollment continues, many schools will be swamped with applicants by the time the full terms open in 1946. Disabled veterans are also taking advantage of Public Law No. 16 and as of December 1 there were 35,353 in training—24,126 in schools and 11,227 on-the-job trainees.

The veterans' administration has also announced that there are more than 87,000 veterans, an all-time peak, receiving hospital treatment and domiciliary care and with a tremendous increase hospital facilities are taxed to capacity.

Questions and Answers

Q.—My husband, who has been in the army for 28 months, who spent 19 months in France and is now in Japan, should be eligible for a discharge under the new law, is he a corporal and in the 549th Port. Co.—Wile, Scottsboro, Ala.

A.—Your husband is stationed in Kure, Japan, as of December 26, and the war has not ended. No word on when his company will be moved home.

Q.—How many points will discharge a navy enlisted man who has been counted for 20 months?—Navy, Chester, Mo.

A.—The navy allows 10 points for dependency, regardless of the number of children. On January 1, 1946, the navy point score dropped to 36 points for enlisted men and 43 for officers. The navy announced further one point cuts to go into effect January 15 and February 2.

Q.—My husband will have been in the army three years as of December. He was recently sent overseas to Japan. He arrived there November 18. He is in the 32nd division. Will he have to stay there after the bill is passed in February that three-year men will be eligible for discharge, even though he is in the occupational army?—Mrs. L. R. M., Pocahontas, Iowa.

A.—The army says your husband is at Kure, Japan, and that high point men will be screened out of the 32nd division to be brought home as soon as transportation is available. They will make no predictions on the possible passage of the bill to which you refer.

Q.—My husband was a veteran of World War I, serving five months and three days, and at the time he was in the army he became ill and remained in the hospital 114 days with pneumonia and measles and his right ear was affected. He cannot hear from that ear and has medical records showing he was sick, but they won't give him a pension. He is 52 years old and the doctor says he is unable to work. Is there any way you can help get a pension?—Wile, Jamieson, Ala.

A.—If your husband has made application to the veterans' administration for a disability rating and if he has been turned down, he has the right to ask for a review of his case. He has the right to appeal the decision to a reviewing board of the veterans' administration. Suggest you write the nearest regional office of the veterans' administration about your husband's case.

Q.—My husband served a little over three months in World War I. He has been in the veterans' hospital at Wadsworth, Kans., two different times in the last two years. He is still weak and very nervous, unable to do but very little work and goes all to pieces. I want to know if there is any way we can get help.—Mrs. D. S., Gashland, Mo.

A.—If your husband is disabled as you say, you have the right to file for a disability rating with the veterans' administration and if given a disability he is entitled to a pension. Suggest you take the matter up with your nearest regional veterans' administration, probably at Kansas City.

Q.—I have been told that servicemen are entitled to a raise in their salary for overseas duty which would increase the service man's family allowance. My husband has been overseas 10 months. He is a 2nd class season. He had this rating when he was overseas and my allotment check has remained the same. Would like to know if I am entitled to any additional allotment since he has been overseas.—Mrs. E. W. L., Dutton, Ala.

A.—The navy department says there is no increase in allotment of navy men when they go to sea.

Loan Applications Under Act 46,836

Applications approved for guaranteed home, farm, and business loans under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (G. I. Bill of Rights) new total 46,836. The Veterans' Administration announced recently.

Of the 46,836 applications for loan guarantees approved by the VA. by far the largest number—42,555—were for homes; 3,276 were for small businesses and 1,005 for farms.

Amendments which greatly liberalized the original Servicemen's Readjustment Act were signed late in December, but until new VA procedures can be worked out, the new amendments are being processed under terms of the old law. Under the amendments, the VA has 90 days in which to draft new regulations. However, the new procedures and liberalized features will be in operation as quickly as they are drafted.

Naval Veterans Are Receiving Practical On-Job Training

Get Allowance of $65 to $115 While Working in Shops

Through a cooperative arrangement between the Navy Department and the Veterans Administration, 160 veterans are receiving on-the-job training, for government and private industrial jobs, at naval installations in the Washington area. Howard F. Dickensheets, manager of the Naval Research Laboratory, Naval Torpedo Station and the Naval Observatory. While serving their apprenticeship, they receive the regular allowance or pension to which they are entitled by law, so long as the total amount does not exceed the beginning wage of the job for which they are training.

Enrolled for training under the provisions of either the G. I. Bill or the law providing for rehabilitation of disabled veterans, these men are at the Naval Gun Factory, Naval Torpedo Station and the Naval Observatory. While serving their apprenticeship, they receive the regular allowance or pension to which they are entitled by law, so long as the total amount does not exceed the beginning wage of the job for which they are training.

Under the recently-amended Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 get a monthly living allowance of $90 if they have dependents, $65 if without dependents; disabled veterans in training under the law get a minimum monthly pension of $115 with dependents, $105 without, plus allowances for individual dependents.

The Veterans Administration is working out similar plans with other Government agencies. It is expected that additional apprentice training programs will be operating soon. The Department of Agriculture will make such training available in the near future, and negotiations also are underway with the Bureau of Engineering and Printing of the Treasury.

Veterans training for these Government jobs may, upon successful completion of the course, be appointed to the job provided they qualify under Civil Service requirements, or they may take similar jobs in private industry. The 160 veterans currently in training are making better-than-satisfactory progress, and only one has been dropped to date.

Veterans desiring on-the-job training should contact either the Regional Office of the Veterans Administration or the nearest regional office of the Veterans' administration about your husband's case.

Vets In Hospitals Practice Therapy

42 Percent of Men in Administration Units Have Occupations

Forty-two per cent of the patients in Veterans Administration hospitals during November were engaged in some sort of occupational therapy as part of their treatment, according to figures released from a study made of 63 hospitals.

These statistics showed 31,460 patients in hospitals engaged in occupational therapy projects such as shoe repairing, wood and leather working, sewing, farming or gardening and other jobs prescribed by doctors. There were 74,894 patients hospitalized in these 63 hospitals during the month.

In November, 297 occupational therapy aides were in the hospitals and 90 other assistants worked with them. Each day during November, this group directed an average number of 9,690 patients and had direct supervision of 17,432 other patients in neuropsychiatric hospitals, 56.6 per cent of the patients participated in tuberculosis hospitals, 34.4 per cent, and in general medicine and surgery hospitals, 1.9 per cent.

VA officials pointed out that patients in the latter type hospitals generally underwent shorter periods of treatment and had less opportunities to participate in occupational therapy projects.

In an effort to rehabilitate veterans in neuropsychiatric hospitals, 8,926 patients assisted in keeping up their own wards and rooms in the dining rooms or kitchens. These activities are under general supervision of occupational therapy aides and are prescribed by doctors. In addition, 3,656 neuropsychiatric patients underwent habit training or work projects which would tend to rehabilitate habits which had deteriorated during the progress of their disease.

Returning Veterans Crowd Schools

New Term Openings May Relieve Problem Of Large Universities

A survey by the Veterans Administration showed recently that ex-servicemen and women are enrolling in great numbers for college work under veterans' legislation in larger and better-known universities, causing serious congestion and crowding, both of classrooms and living accommodations.

Only a few schools have turned away veterans up to the present time, VA officials said, but the picture can change almost overnight with the new terms opening in January and February. Most of the rejections have been because of a shortage of teaching personnel, many of whom are in the Armed Forces.

Despite this, the smaller liberal arts colleges report that they have ample facilities for thousands of students and that these are not being utilized to the fullest extent. In a survey of conditions in more than 1,200 colleges and universities showed that 41 per cent of the more than 100,000 veterans studying under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 are enrolled in 38 of the largest and better-known schools. In pre-war years, these 38 schools had approximately 25 per cent of the total student enrollment.

The December enrollment of the 1,200 colleges and universities, 936,000, VA officials said, with capacity estimated at 1,336,000—a difference of only 500,000. Officials of the schools estimated that by mid-1946 they would be able to handle a total of approximately 1,457,000 students, an addition to 101,000 over December capacity.

Of the 936,000 students enrolled in the schools, eleven per cent were attending under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act or Public Law 16 (for disabled veterans).

Most schools have "ceilings" on the number of students they can handle and this will tend to keep both veterans and regular students waiting lists for some time. Once the capacity lead is reached, there have been no reports of discrimination against veterans, VA officials said. In fact, many schools are giving servicemen preference when it comes to enrolling.

Survey Shows Vets Stand High In All Colleges Attended

Grades Are Equal to Or Better Than Other University Students

Grades of the average veteran going to school under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (the G. I. Bill) are "equal to" and in many instances "a little better" than those of other students, it was revealed by a survey conducted among American colleges and universities and other training institutions by the Education and Training Service of the Veterans Administration.

For instance, at Hinds Junior College, Raymond, Miss., only 8 per cent of the ex-G. I. students completing their education there turned in failing grades, compared with a 17 per cent failure among other students. At Auburn University, Auburn, Ala., where 400 veterans are enrolled, married veterans are taking the lead in scholastic standings.

At the University of Maryland Dental School, veterans in the freshman and sophomore classes made grades averaging 83.31 per cent, as contrasted with 82.72 by other students.

The Academy of Beauty Culture, St. Petersburg, Fla., reported: "Veterans appear to be more alert and thorough than the non-veteran group, motivated by keen desire to enter full time employment as soon as possible." Of the 87 veterans taking training at this institution, almost all are former WACS, WAVES, SPARS, or women Marines.

Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., reported: "Veterans make a much better record because they are more mature. They are determined to do the things they want to do, they have learned how to cooperate and they have a very definite goal in mind."

The Georgetown University School of Medicine and Dentistry, Washington, D. C., was one of the few schools reporting that veterans' grades were the average or better than those of non-veteran students. Veterans in Georgetown Medical School had average grades of 80.95 per cent, compared with 82.11 per cent by non-veterans. In the practice of dentistry in the Dental School veterans' grades averaged 77.67 per cent, compared with 78.23 per cent by regular students.

At the Emory University School of Dentistry, Atlanta, Ga., freshmen turned in grades which averaged 85.06 per cent against an 84.25 per cent average by non-veteran students.

Bills (H. R. 2387 and S. 878) have been introduced in Congress to carry out the 1945 American Legion national convention resolution for the inclusion of World War II veterans within the National Security laws for old-age and survivors' insurance on the basis of $160 per month for the period of their war service.

The Veterans Administration has been introduced in Congress its medical service and has only 2,200, of whom 1,700 are on reserve status and but 600 plan to continue in their present capacities, according to a report of Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, acting surgeon general, to the VA of The American Legion.

“HOW TO SAVE MONEY ON YOUR ELECTRIC BILL”

ON TOUR ELECTRIC BILL
by
Phineas Q. Twitch, Eminent Economist

Dr. Twitch

1 Disconnect your electric door-bell. What if your friends and neighbors do bruise their knuckles knocking? You'll save a penny a month.

Naturally, a penny saved is a penny earned. In only eleven years (at compound interest) you'll earn

2 Sell your vacuum cleaner and beat your rugs by hand. The money you get for your old machine will buy

You can easily do ten rugs in a couple of days, after

3 Turn off your radio during "The Electric Hour" on Sunday afternoon. You'll miss Nelson Eddy and his guest stars and Robert Armbruster's Orchestra, but you'll save a sixth of a penny every time. In a year, that's nearly 9c. And there's no music so pleasant as those coppers clinking in your pocket!

• Watch for more of these practical money-saving suggestions by Dr. Twitch. He really knows his subject. We hope he'll help you realize how many jobs electricity does for you and how little it costs for each.
